

Lectora Fundamentals

Instructor-led Training Class

Class Overview

Learn the basics of Lectora Inspire, including an introduction to many of the menus within the application and the various object properties. In this one-day instructor-led class, you'll learn to build an eLearning course from scratch consisting of chapters, sections, pages, and a graded test. Include a variety of media within your title to engage learners and learn how to create basic actions (such as rollovers), navigation, customized buttons, and various question types. You will also learn how to publish a title to ReviewLink, a free online review tool, and to HTML for access via the Web. Through hands-on exercises you will experience best practices that apply to real projects right away.

The topics covered in class can be tailored to the unique needs of your organization.

About the Instructor

Dan Richards has been developing with Lectora Fundamentals and teaching Lectora Fundamentals at all levels since it came on the market. Mr. Richards regularly speaks, present and instructs on the practice of e-learning design and development with an emphasis on process architecture. His philosophy of "brining the real world into the classroom" means that his students benefit by his 15 years of practical industry knowledge and return from class empowered to create impactful e-learning. Mr. Richards helps organizations implement successful development strategies and introduces best practices right from the start in order to encourage good habits that lead to consistent results.

About the Assistant Instructor

An assistant instructor is recommended for classes with more than 12 attendees.

Eddie Javor has developed hundreds of e-learning modules and has served as an instructor in numerous classes. Having earned his bachelor's in graphic design at the University of Georgia, Mr. Javor has studied graphical user interface design and the progressing trends of contemporary web design. To the classroom, Mr. Javor brings real world experiences, best practices, and applications in e-learning.
